

Caution regarding attendance at 2018 entrance examinations for the MFA Program, for the major in Conservation (for international students), and for the Doctoral Program in the Graduate School of Fine Arts of Tokyo University of the Arts

Handling of examinees with influenza or other infectious diseases

◆ Caution concerning prohibition against attendance for those ill with any of the specified infectious diseases under the School Health and Safety Act

To minimize the possibility of transmitting a disease to others, including examinees and proctors, examinees who have contracted and have yet to recover (as of the exam date) from a infectious disease such as influenza, measles, and chicken pox for which attendance is prohibited under the School Health and Safety Act are requested to forgo taking their examination as a general rule.

Note that this provision does not apply if a physician has confirmed that the patient's condition presents no risk of transmission.

Note that no makeup examinations, other special measures, or refunds of screening fees will be provided for those who are unable to take the examinations for such reasons. Examinees are encouraged to safeguard their health to minimize the risk of illness on the examination date.